Prescription Filling Scenarios

Pills or beads cannot be cut in half.

1. Hank, a 50-pound canine, has been presented with a respiratory infection. You decide to treat with Amoxicycline. The dose of Amoxicycline is 2 mg/lb., twice a day for five days.

2. Jacob, a 75-pound dog, presents for a urinary tract infection. You decide to treat with Amoxicycline. The dose of Amoxicycline is 1 mg/lb., once a day for 8 days.

3. Fiona is a 20 lb. cat presenting for diarrhea. You decide to treat with Tetracillin. The dose of Tetracillin is 2 mg/lb., twice a day for 5 days

4. Oscar is a 15 lb. cat presenting a urinary tract infection. You decide to treat with Tetracillin. The dose of Tetracillin is 1 mg/lb., twice a day for 7 days.

5. Hope, a 20 lb. piglet, has been presented for pneumonia. You decide to treat with Tetracillin. The dose of Tetracillin is 3 mg/lb., once a day for 6 days.

6. Rockie, a 25 lb. dog, has been presented with a urinary tract infection. You decide to treat with Amoxicyline. The dose of Amoxicycline is 2mg/lb., twice a day for 7 days.